

From Cupboard to Creativity Project

Dec 2020 - "Tidy Up Loose Ends"

Hi Everyone,

Are you like me and feeling very disorganised around Xmas preparation and the end of the year festivities?

Normally I would have written my end of year poem & have Xmas plans well in hand etc, but this year I am just keeping up and planning 1 day at a time:)

With that in mind, I have decided that rather than add another theme for December, we should use what time we do have to finish off projects we have started this year and so I led this month "Tidy Up Loose Ends"

I know I have a growing list of projects that are waiting for the final stages on the top construction, or waiting to be quilted, so I will have more than enough to keep me busy over the next few weeks.

Xmas plans are still a little uncertain for us this year with our borders not yet open to S.A. so we have a plan but need to keep options open and change at the last minute if needed.

Our weather is also challenging us again this summer, so stay cool and well hydrated. I hope that no-one has a repeat of last year with the fires etc — stay safe.

No matter where you are for your Xmas this year, I hope you have a Safe and Happy time with those you care about, that you get some time to rest and enjoy the simple pleasures of life with family & friends.

I will dream up a new challenge for next year and let you know after the new Year.

Happy Quilting.

Jan P.
