

Cupboard to Creativity 2023

June Update.

Hi Everyone,

I hope you have had a great month to finish the financial year.

I had a lovely start to the month by taking 2 weeks off to celebrate with family as Peter and I had big 70 birthdays this year.

We had a lovely surprise visit from our daughter Nadine from Adelaide for the first weekend when we also had a family dinner & show planned. It was lovely to have all our 3 girls together and my sister Betty & her hubby also joined us from Adelaide, which made for a great night. We followed that with a trip to Norfolk Island with Betty & Stewart for a week – lots of beautiful walking tracks and great weather added to a relaxing stay.

It took me a day or 2 to get back into quilting, but this month I still managed to get a quilt top together from the heart blocks I found in a box. ↘

I have a few blocks left so I will try to make another quilt with them and some English paper piecing blocks from the same time and fabric.

I have made another fish quilt from a donated kit from Robyn S, and have started a Japanese themed quilt from donated blocks from Sharon S, along with a second quilt of 25 double sided log cabin blocks (which are made in quilt as you go style) I am half way through putting them together, so I hope to complete all these this month.

I feel I have had a very productive month and I hope you have too.
