

Cupboard to Creativity November 2023 Celtic Curves

Hi Everyone,

The end of the year is in sight, and there is so much happening in our world, I feel the busy times require a balance, so I have decided to slow down for November and have chosen the theme of Celtic curves.

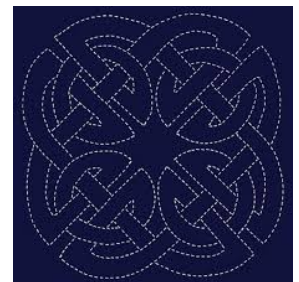

This are two examples of Celtic designed cushions using bias and applique that I have previously made.

There are many ways we can stitch Celtic designs and patterns, many of them are hand sewing methods, however for those who want to sew by machine there are ways to do this too— here are a few examples to explore.

You may want to consider stitching curves in Sashiko or quilting formats —that will still fit the theme for this month
Have fun exploring Celtic curves in some way throughout November.
