"Unfinished Blocks or Love Is"

Hi Everyone,

This month I have decided to keep things super simple as we have public holidays and Easter this month, so I felt it is a perfect time to focus on completing a project using "unfinished blocks" from your stash, as I am taking the theme from what I found in my cupboard.

You could interpret this in several ways

- It could be you have been something from a workshop,
- or some blocks you were trying out for colour placement,
- something from a block swap,
- or simply something you started some time ago and you never got to finish the project.

If you do not have such a thing in your world (I know this is so for some, but not me...), then your challenge can be to create something with the theme of "Love is...." and what that means to you, because the blocks I found in my stash partly completed were from someone else, and even without a pattern, it is clear that the title of the quilt is "Love Is...."

OR Maybe you want to continue the applique theme from last month, well, that is OK too as this bundle has hand applique for the blocks!

Have fun, enjoy the Easter and school holiday break, stay safe & happy stitching.

This is part of the bag of pieces I am basing this month's theme on & that I intend to work with.
