

Update September 2026

Hi Everyone,

I have a new challenge happening and it is not quilting, rather in the format and program I create my patterns and newsletters in - Publisher is not going to exist after October, so I am learning new ways to put things into something I can work with - not always easy!

So now the quilting things

I made up my block from last month's challenge, but I'm still not certain what I will add to this block, so I have put it aside for now.

What I have achieved this month is the completion of my Bargello framed panel quilt top, ready for quilting, plus another design that was originally based on Half Square Triangles made using the paper piecing technique.

This one is now ready to quilt.

I hope you have had fun during September, and with warmer weather upon us, can enjoy more hours of stitching.

Take Care

Jan P
